Hanson Hills Try For Renewal Likely

"We were disappointed," stated Pauline Petrosky, Chairperson of the Grayling Recreation Authority (GRA). "However, after thinking about it, she continued, I really do think it was just one of those freakie things that happens."

The disappointment that Petrosky was referring to was the defeat of both Hanson Hills proposals at the August 2nd primary election. The Hanson Hills first proposal for renewal was defeated by 143 votes, and their second proposal for a ¼ mill increase was defeated by 541 votes.

Petrosky said that although the GRA had not met, she was confident that the millage proposal for renewal would be requested again at the November General Election. The weather, temperatures soared to 102 degrees, and some confusion on the part of voters regarding the location of the Grayling Township polls, all led to the low voter turnout which Petrosky attributed to the defeat of the renewal proposal.

"Over 70 percent of the population uses Hanson Hills in some form or another," said Petrosky," and not just in the winter, but all year." She said that the second proposal went down resoundingly. "That is a message," Petrosky stated, "and I accept it. But I do not believe there is the same feeling towards the renewal. The renewal," she continued, "will not increase anyone's taxes, Crawford County taxpayers have been paying for this for four years at a cost of approximately $5. per year."

Scott Remsing, co-manager of Hanson Hills, stated "There has been an increasing number of people using the facility every year since I began working there. I do not feel that the vote was indicative of the support I see of the park."

A Commission on Aging .25 mill renewal with :05 increase was approved Aug. 2. A Commission on Aging .20 increase request was defeated and the COA board has not met yet to decide what to do next.

Lake Margrethe Road-End Proposal Faces Opposition

by Irene Pettyjohn

The question of whether a township ordinance to regulate the road-ends at Lake Margrethe is necessary was hotly discussed at a recent Grayling Township Planning Commission public hearing.

The hearing took place at the Grayling High School library on Tuesday, July 26, at 8:00 p.m., and was attended by approximately 70 persons.

The meeting was opened by Mary Allen, acting chairperson for the Grayling Township Planning Commission. Allen explained to the group assembled that the purpose of the hearing was to elicit public opinion, so that the ordinance document "will be legal, fair and consistant." She stated that the ordinance as presented was only a draft, and was not a completed document, and she assured everyone that their opinions would be strongly considered as the Planning Commission completed their final recommendations to the Grayling Township Board.

She then accepted questions and comments from the floor.

The questions, comments and criticisms could easily be divided into three categories: concern of the riparian property owners of Lake Margrethe, concerns of the non-reparian property owners of Lake Margrethe, and concerns of the Crawford

County Road Commission. Riparian property owners, or persons who own lake frontage, and who live next to a road-end, public access, reported the many incidences of abuse by the public of the road-ends. Abuses that included trespassing, starting fires, disturbing the peace, alcohol and drug abuse, and leaving trash and broken glass laying around, which lake-front owners are left to clean-up. because apparently no county or township agency is accepting responsibility for the Non-riparian property owners, or persons who own property located behind lake front property, expressed their opposition to any ordinance which would regulate their use of the public road-ends. The general feeling of this group was that they were opposed to the proposed regulation of the locations, length and size of the docks constructed in the riparian right-of-ways of the road-end access areas. Some were opposed to the proposed parking regulations, and still others were opposed to having any docks constructed on the public access areas or boats moored, even temporarily.

John Keir, Engineer Manager of the Crawford County Road Commission, and Gloria Kraus, Chairperson of The Road Commission, questioned the authority of Grayling Township to adopt any ordinance regulating the use of road-ends. Keir stated that most of the platts at Lake Margrethe were established in the early 1900s and that since that time the Road Commission has assumed jurisdiction of these road-ends. He also questioned whether the road-ends have riparian rights. "In other works," Keir said, "we feel that the township has no business saying that they can grant picnic areas, or anything else to that effect on those roadends." He continued by saying that regardless of the proposed $300,000 insurance policy required by dock owners whose docks are located in the public access areas, there is still no protection for the road-ends except for the insurance that the Crawford County Road Commission carries.

Allen cited two letters to John Keir and the Road Commission, one dated 7-31-86 from Arnold Stancil, and a second letter dated 8-7-86 from Grayling Township attorney, Douglas Dosson, appraising the Road Commission of the townships concerns regarding the docks at the road-ends and both the legal and liability problems these docks pose to the township and the county should an accident occur. Stancil requested any assistance the Road Commission could give regarding the road-end problem. Dossen stated that, according to his legal research, control over road-ends in platted subdivision resides with the township or city in which the road-end is located. The township or city has the authority to regulate public usage, if it so chooses. Dosson's letter stated that "in Denton, Gerrish and Lyon Townships ordinances have been drafted which regulate public use at road-ends. Although no townships in Crawford County have yet undertaken to do this, I will at least suggest this to the townships which I represent."

Allen stated that the Crawford County Road Commission had not responded to either letter.

Krause restated her concern that the Grayling Township's proposed ordinance would be in conflict with the Road Commission's jurisdiction over the road-ends. and stated that the Road Commission would be seeking legal advice regarding this matter. She also requested that the Planning Commission, the Grayling Townships supervisor, and Doug Dosson be placed on the Road Commission agenda, "so that we can have a practical understanding of what's going on."

In response to a question regarding what the road-end problem is about, Allen stated that when she first became a member of the Planning Commission and the road-end discussions began she could not understand why there was any problem. "All you had to do was say no docks, no boats," she said. "and there wouldn't be a problem." But Allen stated, the commission members quickly let her know that there was much more than that at issue. She said that when she was driven around the lake to inspect the twenty-plus road-end accesses, even with a map, she would not have been able to find the access sites if someone had not pointed them out. "They are not public access sites if the public cannot find them," said Allen. "I don't think we would have the congestion at a few places if the public really knew where all the sites are."

During the hearing all legal questions were noted by the township's attorney, Doug Dosson. Following the floor discussion Dosson addressed the legal concerns regarding the road-end ordinance. He explained his legal opinion regarding jurisdiction over road-ends. Dosson said that in 1986 a group of Gerrish Township lake front lot owners started a lawsuit in Roscommon County Circuit Court to decide the issue of jurisdiction and to force the township to pass a regularotry ordinance. Judge Horn ruled that the township has jurisdiction over roadends. Following this decision, Lyon Township passed a road-end ordinance and was sued by a group of property owners saying the ordinance was unenforceable. In an opinion handed down in January 1988, Judge Horn ruled not only that the township has jurisdiction over the road-ends, but that ordinances similar to the Lyon Township ordinance are legal, enforceable and proper. This decision has been appealed and in the future the Court of Appeals will have down a more definitive opinion. Dosson stated that until the Court of Appeals rules, the townships retain jurisdiction.

Dosson answered many other legal questions regarding riparian rights, public legal access, and liability on non-exclusive private docks.

At the conclusion of the hearing Allen polled the group to see how many people in attendance were in favor of an adjusted regulatory ordinance. Nine people were in favor of a road-end ordinance, and fifty-six people were opposed.

The Grayling Planning Commission held a special meeting on Friday, July 29, to review the findings of the public hearing.

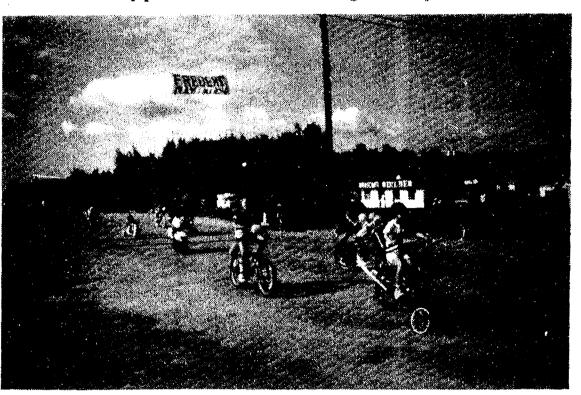

The commission expressed their disappointment that there was not a greater and more vocal representation of township residents who live away from the lake at the meeting. Allen stated that the Planning Commission has the responsibility to consider the entire township population...not just those who live at or near the lake.

"The road-end ordinance question does not only affect those who own lake front property of their 'backlot' neighbors,' said Allen. "The public access road-ends belong to everyone in our county.

The Planning Commission voted to continue to work on a road-end ordinance for

For anyone who has tried the Grayling Winter Sports Carnival $500 Medallion Hunt, there's a treasure hunt this Saturday night. August 13, that may interest you.

For one thing, the 3rd Annual Lake Margrethe Treasure Hunt is bound to be less frustrating than the Medallion Hunt.

The Medallion Hunt last 10-12 days and some people suffer a long time trying to figure out clues.

The Treasure Hunt takes place all in one night and the answers to clues are displayed for everyone to see at the end of the night. Better yet, if you don't figure out a clue in 15-20 minutes in the Treasure Hunt you can open a "Panic" envelope and the answer is right in your hands.

With the Medallion Hunt, you sometimes feel like a fool searching strange places with no one else around.

In the Treasure Hunt most everyone goes to the same places - some just arrive there quicker than others. And the best thing about the Treasure Hunt is that all the hunters arrive at the same final destination where a party awaits them.

In the Medallion Hunt, the losers can burn up a tank of gas and wind up with nothing but frustration.

In the Treasure Hunt the losers can burn up a tank of gas but at least they wind up at a pretty nice party.

Every four-person team starts from one place with several envelopes with clues. You solve a puzzle that leads you to a place in Crawford County. You drive to the place, a large sign tells which envelope to open next and you solve that clue and drive on. Panic envelopes with the answers inside ensure everyone stays in the hunt without getting stumped too long. It costs penalty minutes to open the panic envelopes,

At the end, all hunters are led to one place for a party and to award cash prizes. The team taking the least amount of time to solve the puzzles wins the cash.

The puzzles aren't real hard but they seem to be tougher to solve when you're sitting in an automobile trying to think faster than all the other teams in the hunt.

Here's a sample of a clue from a previous hunt. If you can figure out a destination quickly from this clue, you may want to try the treasure hunt. For more information call 348-5010 or 348-9359. Registration deadline is Friday at 5 p.m.

Some Views from Atlanta

by Richard Milliman

NOW THAT THE HOOPLA at the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta has died down .... and before the hoopla at the Republican National Convention in New Orleans begins assaulting our senses ... and before the 1988 presidential campaign swings into overdrive ....

Let's review a few assorted comments from assorted commentators about what they think really happened at the coronation of Gov. Michael Dukakis as presidential

DETROIT FREE PRESS EDITOR JOE STROUD was plainly impressed with Gov. Dukakis and his acceptance speech. Claiming that he was skeptical and tended to doubt and underestimate Gov. Dukakis, Mr. Stroud was turned around by the nominee's performance:

"... He knows how to push the right emotional buttons, and he did ... He placed himself and his campaign on the political high ground of concern for traditional American values. And he seemed, in a truly shrewd and special way, to call his party home to ideals and approaches that have marked it over the years as something distinctive in American political life, but have often gotten muted in recent campaigns .... The Democrats have a candidate, a campaign and a theme. The Republicans, despite the economy, have a problem."

COLUMNIST WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR., predictably was not nearly so impressed. Dismissing the Dukakis acceptance address as "merely rhetorical basso sostenuto for applause" (whatever that may be), Mr. Buckley wrote:

"Michael Dukakis did nothing, in his acceptance speech, to damage his reputation. He is not an orator (so what? Neither was Lincoln). He hewed a careful line designed not to alarm Americans of normal blood pressure (he said nothing about higher taxes or slashed defense expenditures). It is not unsafe to say that what he said was well, nothing."

NEWSWEEK MAGAZINE, in its postconvention issue, said the candidate is "attempting a precarious stunt" as he prepares his campaign: "To win, he must woo back the 'Reagan Democrats' - mostly suburban voters who deserted the party in droves in 1980 and 1984, That means the party of Hubert Humphrey, 🖟 George McGovern and Jesse Jackson must play down its liberal love of underdogs, and turn to barbecue dreams of low taxes, worka fare, job protection and crackdowns on crime. But Dukakis must somehow keep his liberal idealogues in line as well, even as he is sweeping their cause under the rug."

COLUMNIST-COMMENTATOR GEORGE WILL, writing in the same issue, described the Democratic platform as "political cotton candy - mostly air and no nutriments," and defined Gov. Dukakis' goal

"About 100 million Americans will vote in November, so Dukakis must convince about 50 million. What do 50 million agree about? About the desirableness of the things Dukakis advocates, from family farms and affordable housing and college education through an end to AIDS and drugs and homelessness. The disagreement is about paying for them."

OF COURSE, MICHAEL DUKAKIS was not the only story in Atlanta. The Rev. Jesse Jackson probably got more in and more attention than the nominee, which is quite something for a loser. Mr. Jackson's convention speech is generally ranked as the best of the week, even though - as Columnist William Raspberry noted — it was essentially the same stump speech Mr. Jackson has delivered for several months, and it was not vintage Jackson, either. But Mr. Jackson has a definite campaign role now, wrote Mr. Raspberry:

"The Democrats need him - Dukakis needs him — to breathe some soul into what threatens to be a singularly dull campaign, and also to deliver a significant chunk of voters that he alone can deliver.... The Democrats need the votes of the disenchanted. But they also need the return of those right-of-center Democrats who helped to bring us eight years of Ronald Reagan. One question is whether Jackson can turn on the one w ut turning off the other."

ECONOMIC COLUMNIST LOUIS RUKEYSER found the nomination of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen rather curious, although he described the vice presidency itself as "the silliest non-job ever created outside the Teamsters' Union." Mr. Rukeyser com-

"Well, we finally have the possibility of a pretty good economic debate in the country this year. Not between Michael Dukakis and George Bush — they are both still managing to keep the details of their economic policies, if any, a closely held national secret but between Dukakis and his bizarrely mismatched choice as a running mate, Lloyd Bentsen."

WELL, THERE YOU HAVE a handful of post-convention comments, selected with no attempt at even-handedness or fairness. They are simply observations which appealed to this essayist, and passed along for your amusement and interest, too.

KCC's Annexation of Gaylord Makes Sense

Dear Editor:

In my opinion an extremely exciting educational possibility has been presented to Kirtland Community College by a group of dynamic and visionary people from Gaylord. Their proposal is to annex Gaylord district to Kirtland. Annexation, if accepted by the voters, would immediately bring into KCC approximately $340,000 SEV.

Why are Gaylord people looking to Kirtland? First of all, by law only Kirtland can annex the Gaylord district since we are the only "contiguous" or bordering community college district.

Second, Gaylord cannot establish its own community college because the State has legislated no more community colleges.

Governor Seeks Drought Aid; Threatens Insurer's License

State officials have announced they have high expectations that most, if not all, 83 counties will qualify for a drought disaster determination by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng.

And, insurance regulators declared they would file a suit to force a New Jersey company to make good on drought policies sold by its agents and would revoke it license if Governor James J. Blanchard asked Lyng for the determination, which would trigger low-interest loans, based on an assessment by state experts which show "extremely large losses" in many crops.

The governor said he will approve $600,000 in supplemental appropriations approved by the Legislature for the Cooperative Extension Service and Agriculture Experiment Station for emergency services to

To qualify for a secretarial determination, a county must have suffered a 30 percent loss of normal dollar value of all crops or a 30 percent loss in a single enterprise.

Agriculture Director Paul Kindinger said $400-$600 million in direct crop losses have been incurred this year due to the drought, and the effects will be felt for several years in some commodities, such as Christmas trees, where 10 million of the 13 million trees planted this year have died.

Insurance Commissioner Herman Coleman said the state will file suit against Federal Insurance (a member of the Chubb Group in New Jersey), which accepted applications from 1,100 farmers for drought insurance before the policy was approved by state regulators and then refused to issue the policies, saying it could not afford to underwrite potential losses.

The suit will allege misrepresentation, use of unlicensed agents and violations of rate and form requirements.

Coleman said he will not accept Federal's proposal to refund double premiums to farmers who elect that option or to let farmers share in $10 million it has allocated for this region.

Unless it comes up with a more satisfactory response to provide coverage farmers expected, Coleman said he would revoke Federal's license.

The company says the applications were accepted by agents who had no authority sell the policies.

Nursing Home Study Results Released by Public Health Dept.

The Department of Public Health has released the results of a study on the relationship between the quality of care provided in nursing homes and the cost of care.

The report, entitled "Identifying Cost-Effective Nursing Homes: A Benefit/Cost Tradeoff Analysis," was a joint effort of the department and Michigan State University's Office of Medical Education Research and Development.

The report declares a need to better define quality of care as it applies to the long-term care setting and provides a framework for the development of a nursing home quality score that can be used to compare all Michigan-licensed nursing homes, said Raj Wiener, acting director of the Public Health Department.

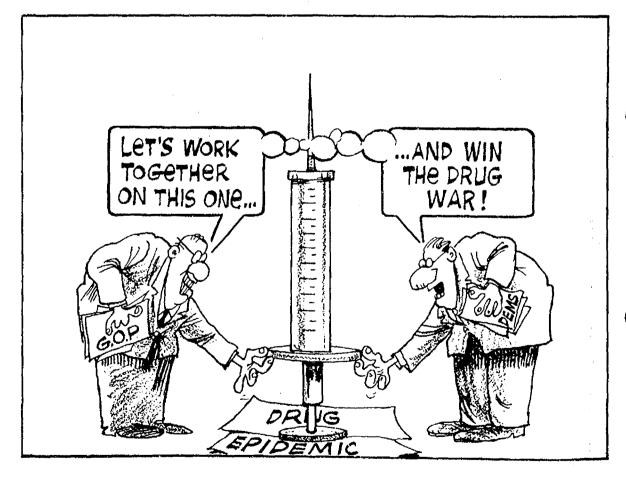

"Historically, we have evaluated nursing home quality based on how good the medical care is. This study demonstrates the need to expand our perceptions and focus on quality of life issues as well.

Offering a patient a comfortable environment to visit with friends is as important as giving the correct pain medication," Wiener

The research further reports that cost and quality of care are not necessarily related.

Findings showed that the cost/quality relationship appeared to be random association with a number of homes deemed high cost/low quality and a number of homes low cost/high quality. Wiener said.

"These findings make the framework for quality outlined in the study even more important. We will aggressively pursue their development as part of the department's ongoing activities in improving the care residents get in Michigan nursing homes," she said, and noted the department would work with MSU, industry representatives and consumers to implement the report's recommendations.

Working Parents Eligible For Day Care Assistance

Low income families with both parents employed are now eligible for financial assistance for day care payments.

According to Robert Por-Crawford County Department of Social Servcies Director, the addition of the two parent family with both being employed is the most recent classification where assistance is offered. Others who may be eligible include two parent families where one parent is incapacitated and the single need not be qualified for any parent family, he said.

Porter said that all that is necessary to apply for the assistance is to come to the Department of Social Service office and ask about the "Low Income Day Care" program. "There is only a one page simple application to determine if a family is eligible," he said. As an example of eligible families, Porter used a three-member family with the total bi-weekly income of the two parents less than $619. In that case, he said, the DSS would pay 100 percent of the cost. If the total earned bi-weekly is above $856, the family would not be able to obtain assistance. Between the $619 figure and $856, the DSS would pay a percentage of the cost. Porter emphasized that the income is the only test to determine the eligibility and that other assets (property such as automobiles) are not included in the estimate.

He also noted that a person

Bits of Talk

By Sandy McAnallen

Mrs. William Lawson, Marjory and Charlie returned July 27 to their home on Lake Margrethe from a motor trip to Alasks. The Lawsons trip took them to Grinnell, Iowa on July 11 where they staved overnight at The Slavehoeks, former parishioners of Lawson. They left Grinnell at noon on July 12 and drove non-stop to Seattle, Washington. They had lunch in the top of the space needle, went to the aquarium, then to see the Mariners defeat the Indians in the Kingdome. They again drove non-stop to Dawson Creek, British Columbia arriving July 15. On July 16 the Lawsons drove on to Liard River Hot Springs.

Leaving there early Sunday they continued on toward Alaska and were greeted by the news that the Al Can was closed due to mud slides. On further checking, they found it was to be reopened at 5:00 that afternoon - they bounced through it. Mrs. Lawson says it's rougher now than in 1971 when it was all gravel. After a week of sightseeing in Alaska and spending one program.

night with Mrs. Lawson's nephew, Doug Rhodes and his wife Cindy, they started for home. After not having any car trouble on the trip up to Alaska, they managed to blow three tires within 24 hours. Wildlife was abundant. They saw Caribou, Elk, Moose, Antelope, Buffalo, and so many mountain goats they lost count.

They pulled into Grayling at midnight, July 27 and

Volunteers Build Fair From the Ground Up

by Nancy Lemmen

The Annual Crawford County Fair has come a long way since six short years ago when it existed only as a dream of Crawford County resident and 4-H leader Jan Olson. Olson had never lived a county without a fair and decided that Crawford County shouldn't be without one, either. So, in 1982 she approached Ann Stephenson, who was then the 4-H Program Assistant, for assistance in getting a fair going.

They explain with a laugh that, although they were both enthusiastic about the idea, neither of them knew what she was doing. After a couple of false starts, they approached the County Board of Commissioners, which, they remember, thought their idea was great, but said they needed a board of directors.

After holding a public meeting to determine interest among local people, they put together a board, with Frederic resident Harold Mertes as president. "Jan brought the fair about," remembers Stephenson, "and Harold held it together." Mertes admits that the fair is one of his favorite subjects to talk about. "It has been a big part of my life. I got a lot out of it just to be part of a new organization."

As a former high school 4-H member, Mertes had an interest in the concept of a county fair. As Frederic Township Supervisor, he had flexible hours which allowed him to put in lots of time on the new project.

The original board contacted the Fair and Race Track Division of the State Agricultural Department to determine requirements which would make it eligible for state funds. They received approval for a County Fair from the State of Michigan in August, 1982, developed a constitution, filed for non-profit corporation status, and began working on the 1983 Fair.

The First Annual Crawford County Fair was held at Hanson Hills for three days. In the early years, it was difficult to obtain a quality carnival, because few seemed willing to take a chance with an unproven outfit that could not guarantee minimum attendance or gate receipts. Mertes, however, convinced a carnival that had visited Frederic to take a chance on the fledgling Crawford County Fair. And Olson and Stephenson remember it as being super, with probably 3,000 people in attendance.

Even so, it was rough going for a while. Although the Grayling Recreational Authority permitted the board to pay its bills after the fair was over, Mertes says that for the first three or four years, the board was lucky to have a couple of hundred dollars left after each fair.

RAIN HURT

During one of the early fairs, he says it rained for three days, which drove the gate way down and the board ended up in the hole. "All that work and effort, and like any outdoor activity, it was controlled by weather. For three days we'd worry half to death. It was a bad year."

They left Hanson Hills after the 1985 fair, because the board wanted its own grounds and buildings and had some plans for expansion. Olson and Stephenson credit Mertes with doing the necessary work to bring about the move.

He explains that the Crawford County Board of Commissioners applied for property owned by the Department of Natural Resources to be leased to the fair board. In 1986, the board was awarded a lifetime lease on the new grounds, located at the corner of Old US 27 North and M-93. Mertes likes the fact that the fair board now has its own grounds. Its theirs, he says; it gives them a sence of security; it shows that the board has accomplished something; it is hightly visible at its present location.

Under the lease agreement and constitution, the buildings and other assets will revert to the County if the fair folds. Mertes doesn't think that is likely. For the short period of time that the fair has been in existence, he says, it has grown and interest in it has grown.

Current president Donna Masker, who took over from Mertes in the summer of 1987, agrees that the 1988 Fair is going to be bigger and better than ever, but she doesn't totally share his confidence about the future. Masker emphasizes that the fair is not funded by the county, but makes most of its operating funds from limited State matching funds, the premium books and gate receipts. Like Mertes in years past, she worries that rain might drive this year's attendance and profits down.

OWES $32,000

Meanwhile, after moving, the board borrowed $35,000 to build two pole barns on the new property. Mertes, with the assistance of board member Alton Davis, worked to get the buildings put up, say Olson and Stephenson. A good portion of the loan went toward the original clearing of the land, electricity to the grounds and the barns, and cement for floors. The board still owes $32,000 on that loan, and incurs other annual expenses on items such as tent rentals portable restrooms and horse arena grating.

In some counties, local organizations and youth groups build and run their own buildings. For example, the Eastern Star runs the kitchen at the Otsego County Fair. Evidently it was a goal of the original board to convince Crawford County groups to do the same. The grounds and buildings could then be used by the groups throughout the year, not just during the fair.

Several current board members remember that the first fair received lots of help from local organizations, with nearly 15 groups selling concessions of some type. But as the years passed, fewer maintained their participation. The board hopes to see a return to that early extensive community involvement, and encourages organizations and businesses to set up concession stands and exhibit booths.

More can be done, asserts Masker, if the community pulls together and gets behind the fair. She is pleased, for example, that the Chamber of Commerce has decided to hold sidewalk sales during this fair as a show of support from the merchants.

Masker would also like to see Crawford County residents volunteer for stints on the board. The composition of the board has changed over the past six years and several of the present board members will be retiring after 1988, so new ones are needed

Mertes credits 4-H people, who made up the core of the original board, with getting the fair going, even though Crawford County is not an agricultural area. Throughout the years, he says, the Board has tried to accommodate and please 4-H, as well as utilize the people who are experts in many of the show areas where the board lacks expertise. For example, 4-H handles the animal building and the 4-H horse club, Hoofbeats. puts on the horse show.

INVOLVEMENT NEEDED

He sees the board as a small, policysetting group, and echoes Masker's assertion that community involvement is needed. Even though he resigned as president to spend more time with his family, this spring he sold ads for the premium books and remade the bottoms of the rabbit cages. He predicts that the continued success of the fair will depend on the willingness of many people to take on one small project such as selling ads or cutting grass on the grounds. Mertes senses that the board is changing over the years and he approves. Different types of leadership are needed during different times. "I got the fair going," he explains. "I knew people in construction and what needed to be done. I hired and supervised grounds and buildings crews."

But once the development stage was over, he felt the board needed a different type of leadership - go-getters, organizers, promoters, salesmen. Mertes' departure left a big hole in the board. Masker says they struggled after he left, because nobody realized all he had been doing. "He knew the ins and outs, the paperwork; he was devoted to youth." Stephenson and Olson add that he wanted to see the fair come about for the people of the county as an activity the whole family could participate in together.

If Mertes can be credited with making the Crawford County Fair happen, he is equally grateful for what being a part of its development did for him: "It has given me insight if I want to start a small business." He adds with a smile, "At the time it was hell, but it has been a confidence builder for Mertes mentions the Michigan Youth Corps, which has helped the board over the years with the hard labor, as well as many other groups and individuals who have helped, even though the county lacked a fair tradition. There's nothing like success to develop interest, and Mertes believes that the fair has evolved through certain necessary stages and is now progressing very well.

Meanwhile, the present board is hoping for nice weather for August 10-14, and invites the community to come out to the 6th Annual Crawford County Fair, which offers more than ever before - ongoing craft exhibits, an excellent carnival, new forms of entertainment, improved facilities.

It has been six years since Olson says she and Stephenson "knew nothing about what we were doing. But we got it going." And the 1988 board - president Masker, vicepresident Davis, secretary Teri Moran. treasurer Shirley Schmoock, and members Steve Allen, Doris Birtcher, John Hunter, Cathi Goeckerman, Barry McClanahan, John Naour, Olson, Elaine Riley, Stephenson and Larry Yoder - plan to keep it going.

EQUESTRIAN SHOW RETURNS - K & S Stables will be appearing at the Crawford County Fair again this year. The show features rare Andalusian horses imported from Spain, plus trick ponies. There will be shows on Saturday, Aug. 13, at 2 and 4 p.m. in the horse arena.

Artrain's Cranbrook Exhibit Draws 1,962 Visitors

GRAYLING MURAL ADDED TO ARTRAIN - Local artist Terry Dickinson painted this picture of the train depot on one of Artrain's cars to commemorate the 1988 stop in Grayling. Artists from each Artrain stop added a community mural to the side of the train.

STUDIO CAR - Local artist Marj Shipe demonstrates her pen and ink sketching techniques for visitors to Artrain.

Artrain's 1988 Grayling exhibit ended on Sunday, July 31, at 8:00 in the evening. By Monday morning, the inside of the train cars did not look like a museum any longer. Art works, safely stored in crates for the train trip home to Cranbrook, filled the cars, with only narrow paths left for the staff members to walk through as they completed their dismantling and packing. By five o'clock, the staff was on the road home and the five cars that make up Artrain were being added to a train already bound for the south of the state.

But for the four days that Artrain visited Grayling - Thursday through Sunday, July 28-31 - the interiors of the railroad cars had been transformed into a small, yet impressive art museum. Artrain's current tour was entitled "The Cranbrook Vision: Past and Present," and featured works from Cranbrook Art Academy's founders and present artists-in-residence.

Grayling was the final stop in the 35-city Cranbrook tour, which began in Romulus and travelled through both peninsulas of Michigan, where more than 100,000 people saw it. In Grayling alone, the four-day exhibit drew in 1,962 visitors.

The beauty of Artrain, which is described as the only art museum in the nation on a train, is that it can deliver art to a wide audience, often in communities without museum facilities of their own. According to Joan Krueger, Artrain manager, some people from other towns came to see Artrain in Graying because they regretted missing it when it stopped in their communities last year.

Artrain was founded in 1971 by the Michigan Council for the Arts as a way to bring art directly to the people and to spur community interest and involvement in the arts. A group of Shriners from Valparaiso and Michigan City, Indiana, who came to Grayling to appear in the Milltown Parade thought that the concept was a great idea. According to Artrain Services Coordinator Sherry Haag, who hosted part of the group, they visited the exhibit and told her that Indiana has nothing like Michigan's Artrain.

Site Chairperson George Morse said that he heard many positive responses from people who visited Artrain, and they showed an appreciation for the impact of Cranbrook's art on contemporary living. Visitors also enjoyed the studio car with artists demonstrating their works in progress. Artrain travelled with two staff artists, Myung Raymond, an Oriental brush painter, and Don Reynolds, a potter.

Haag scheduled the many area artists and craftspeople who also demonstrated in the studio car of Artrain: Jane Adams, needlepoint; Donna Carmean, porcelain dolls; Terry Dickinson, sketching; Sue Dilts, calligraphy; Jane Duval, quilting; Don Geiss, leatherwork; Carl Hatfield, basketry; Cathy Hickey, basketry; Adelaide Laurence, painting; Robin Menfee, black ash basketry; Vivian Menefee, beadwork; Tim Neal, fly tying; Doug Post, woodburning; Winnie Riddle, quilting; Marj Shipe, pen and ink drawing; Elaine Siwula, painting; Bob Smock Sr., fly tying; and Jay Stephan, riverboat building.

Artists and craftpeople tend to specialize in different areas from one locale to another. Grayling for example has many fine basket makers. And Krueger said that this was Artrain's only stop which featured flytyers.

Haag added that she visited Artrain while Bob Smock was tying flies and found it fascinating that he could talk with observers while doing the intricate work. She explained that Smock said each fly is a bit different from every other one and that individuality is one of the differences between hand-tied and machine-made flies.

Krueger emphasized the importance of the big local commitment that is necessary to bring Artrain to any town. For example, Guide Chairperson Pete Ingvarsson was charged with the task of signing up the more than 48 guides needed to staff the train. He found many of his willing helpers from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP).

Fundraising, however, was simplified for the 1988 visit, because Grayling State Bank underwrote most of the local costs. The Michigan Council for the Arts also provides financial support for Artrain and railroads donate the services of engineers and crews to move the train. The Milltown Festival Committee acted as the official 1988 sponsor for the stop in Grayling.

Local radio stations WGRY and WQON and the Crawford County Avalanche provided expanded media coverage before and during Artrain's visit, and area radio stations and newspaper also publicized the exhibit throughout a multi-county area.

A goal of Artrain is to promote art education. To that end, exhibition-related filmstrips and activities for classroom teachers are provided to communities which host the exhibit. Parents and teachers who would like to use the Cranbrook materials can call (517) 348-9284.

The train cars, with murals decorating their exteriors will remain empty of artwork until 1989. Then a new tour featuring antique toys will be taken via railroad throughout the state and perhaps the nation. Maybe Grayling will be one of the stops onthat tour, too.

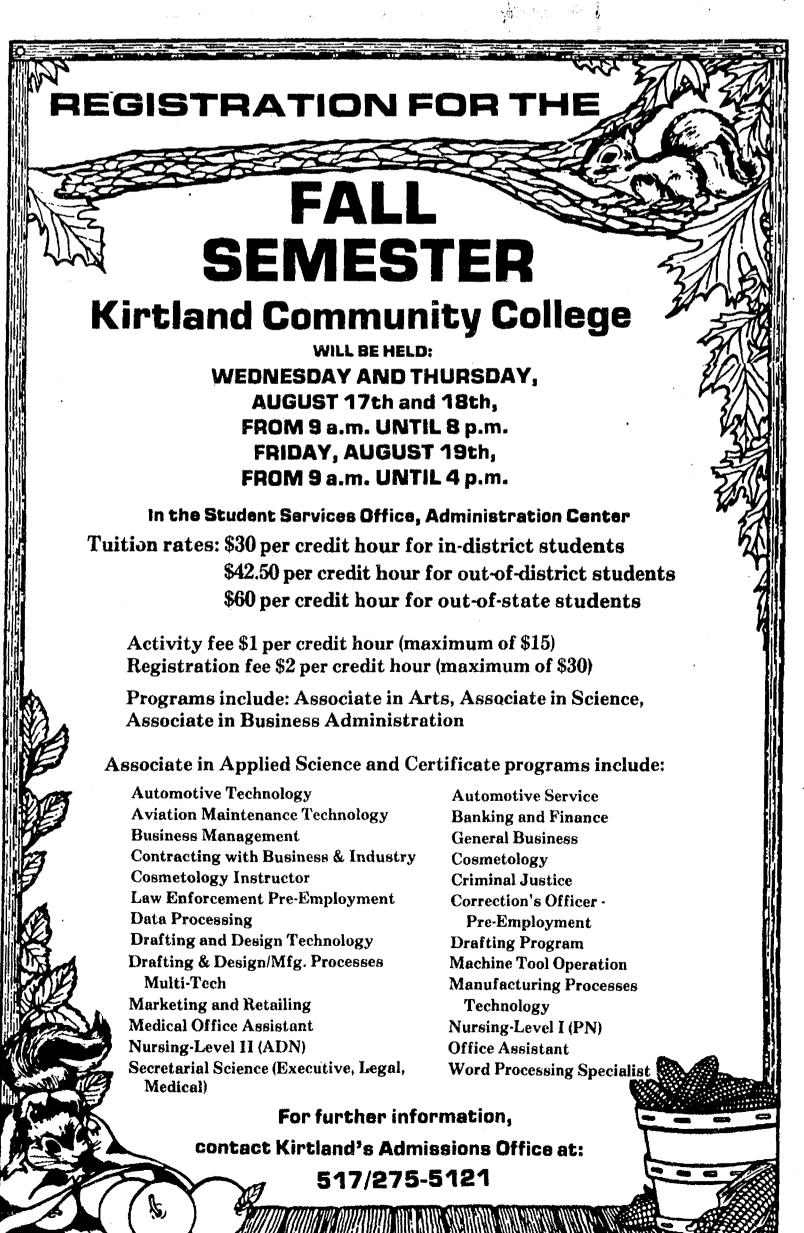

WOODBURNING DEMONSTRATION

Doug Post demonstrates the craft of woodburning to several Artrain visitors.

GALLERY CAR - Local Artrain committee member George Morse pauses for a moment from his duties to explore one of the three gallery cars housing the exhibit.

The last thing you need now is a problem with your homeowners insurance.

Home, sweet home. Sometimes it's difficult to keep it that way. And the problem with homeowner's insurance is you never know how good it is until the roof caves in. Then it can be too late. A Homeowners policy from Auto-Owners offers you replacement cost coverage on your home and personal property. Some homes qualify for optional Guaranteed Home Replacement cost coverage. And the great news is...this one encompassing policy may cost you less than the coverage you have now because Auto-Owners offers several discounts and rating advantages. There's no place like Auto-Owners when it comes to Homeowner's protection. Just ask your "no problem" agent!

Dear Typing Teacher

George Watson

The machines may turn to junk;

my fingers have turned to lead!

You watch as I pound the keys

all the time you set and worry

After an hour or so of pounding but how can I do that when

Getting all the keys mixed up with a touch you seem to fix, we're the class of eighty six.

I know you thought us all thumbs

Verse or Worse

By Joseph D. Murphy

My Best Friend

That I can depend on day or night

He's always there in time of trouble

I have a dear faithful friend

No matter what my trouble is

He can always set things right

Ever faithful through the years

He has always time to help me

Free my heart of grief and fears

And I grow weary on life's road

And he's there to share the load

Other friends may come and go

But this friend is always there

Showing so much love and care

None other can compare with him

If you would like to have a friend

That would help you at any time

This wonderful friend of mine

This treasure without price

My best friend Jesus Christ.

I'm sure he'd like to be your friend

I would gladly share him with you

I'm sure that you would love him

I only have to call his name

When my load is heavy

Berry Jar Can Be Used For Plant Combinations

They are called strawberry jars, but the large earthenware containers with plant pockets on the sides can be used for any number of plant combinations.

Some of the other crops that do well in the strawberry jars include herbs, annuals and succulents of various types.

A pleasing arrangement for your strawberry jar can be realized by choosing plants with trailing or cascading habits or plants that are small and globular, or a combination of the two types.

Some of the annuals to choose from are petunias, ivy geraniums, lobelia, sweet alyssum and nasturtiums. They all will cascade down the sides of the strawberry jar. Wax begonias, French marigolds and dwarf snapdragons are some non-trailing choices.

Pansies can be planted in the jar in the fall and replaced with other annuals when the pansies finish blooming. You may want to use the strawberry jar for growing herbs, such as thyme, chives, parsley, sage and trailing rosemary. Because they are larger, scented geraniums, rosemary and mint should be grown in the top of the jar. Among the succulents to choose from is hen-andchicks or houseleek. The color of the leaves and the size of the rosettes vary from species to species. Some have green leaves, some green leaves with purple or red tips, and some have leaves tinged with purple.

Portulaca is a trailing annual with fleshy, needle-like leaves and flowers of yellow, red, pink, orange or white.

If you want a strawberry jar of succulents, you can also choose among the types of trailing sedums, many of which have attractive flowers in addition to handsome foliage.

Did you know that last season was the first year in the history of major-college football that two teams from the same state finished No. 1 and No. 2 in the final AP and UPI football polls?...The top two teams in the final polls of 1987 were Miami of Florida and Florida State.

Surprisingly, although there are lots of football stadiums in America that seat over 65,000 people, there is only one big league baseball park in the nation that seats over 65,000...That is Cleveland Stadium which 74,383.

+ + + + Here's proof that sometimes you shouldn't give up on a player too soon...When the great Willie Mays first came to major league baseball in 1951, he failed to hit in 26 of his first 27 times up.. He was batting .037...At that moment it didn't look like Mays would become one of the greatest players of all time - but he did.

I bet you didn't know... that just like they didn't give up on Willie Mays too soon, we at Scheer Motors didn't give up on Bob White too soon. He will try harder than any car salesman you ever met to help you get the car you really want for the price you can really afford. guide for your marking pencil.

After you decide how big you want the circle(s), measure from the V to the point that is equal to the radius of the circle. Then drive a small nail (or a tack) through that point so the end of the nail or tack is barely showing through the other side. Press the nail into the wall, hard enough so the wood will hold to the wall, yet easy enough so it can spin freely. When a pencil is placed in the notch, you can draw perfect circles. To change the size of the circles, change the location of the pivoting nail.

When you get ready to paint the circles, use 1/4" masking tape to go around the outside edge of them. The tape is narrow enough to bend easily. Make sure the paint is completely dry before removing the tape.

The last time I hung wallpaper, I trusted that the walls were vertical, and you can tell from the pattern they obviously were not. How do I not make the same mistake again the next time?

Get a long (four or five ft.) metal straightedge that has a hole in it so it can hang. When you've decided on your starting point, put a small nail in the wall and hang the straightedge on it. When the straightedge stops moving, press it firmly against the wall and make a light pencil mark. Don't forget to check yourself every three or four strips to make sure you're still on line, and make a mark for every corner

I would like to put in a wing wall in our bathroom, but I'm not sure of the best way to stabilize it. A wing wall (one that is not attached on the top or one of Religion The Pharisees claimed to be the seed of Abraham, and Jesus acknowledged their claim. "I know that ye are Abraham's seed; but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you." (John 8:37). Being born in the right family did not keep them from rejecting the Son of God and the Word of God. Jesus told them why they had this problem. They were trusting the wrong father. (John 8:38). If you think your religious ancestory will help save you, them you also are trusting the wrong father.

The Gospel of John Part No. 45

The Pharisee's second claim was to be sons of Abraham, implying more than just physical seed, Jesus reminded them that their fruit did not support their claim. "They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father, Jesus saith unto them If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham." In contrast to doing the works of Abraham, they were trying to kill Jesus for telling them the truth. (John 8:40). Jesus reminded them that they represented the works of another spiritual family. "Ye do the deeds of your father..." (John 8:41a).

The Pharisees come back with a third claim. "Then said they to him. We be not! born of fornication; we have one Father, even God." (John 8:41b). This seem to be also an implied attack upon the virgin birth of Jesus Christ. Jesus reminds them that they do not meet the test being God's children. "Jesus said unto them, If God were your father, ye would love me." (John 8:42a). One who does not love Jesus Christ can not claim to be a child of God. Secondly, they could not hear or understand the word of God. (John 8:43). One who is born again of the Spirit of God loves the Son of God and understands the language of God's Word.

Jesus now gives them the full contrast of who they really are. "Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him, When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it." (John 8:44). Jesus told these religious Pharisees their family character came from Satan, their conduct of lusts and murder was of Satan, and their creed of lies was of Satan. Much religion still follows Satan to a great degree.

False religions reject God's Word. "And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?" He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God." (John 8:45-47).

RLDS Members Attend Reunion

July and August are busy months at the two church owned parks and campgrounds.

Junior camp was held July 10-15 at Park of the Pines located north of Boyne City. Two out of state visitors who attended youth camp were Alison Stephan from Alasks who was visiting her grandmother, Tressa Fenton; and Nichole Ney from South Dakota who was visiting her grandparents, Patricia and Bernie Fowler. Nichole also stayed through the reunion with her grandmother.

Each year two reunions held for congregrations of the Northern Michigan Region. Our Grayling branch attended reunion No. 1 from July 23 -30. Over 200 attended this renuion plus some who came on a daily basis. The campground was full of campers,

There were three baptisms in the lake: Twins Thad and Brad Horton, sons of Gerry Horton from our Grayling congregation were baptized by their grandfather, Wayne Horton. Rochelle Money from Onaway was baptized by her grandfather, Ray Money, who was carried in his wheelchair into the water by members for this service.

The RLDS Yard Sale and Strawberry dessert efforts were a success so they will be able to purchase a new. stové for the kitchen in the Grayling Branch.

VISION AND THE

COMPUTER OPERATOR

QUESTION: Can the use of a Computer Terminal cause eye strain?

ANSWER: Activities such as constant reading of a Computer Terminal can cause some vision related problems. Common complaints include, headaches, eye fatigue, blurred vision and double vision to name just a few. Certain precautions can be taken to help. The operator should position the screen so that light is not directing glare upon it. The unit itself should be at a comfortable working distance and correct angle. A 15 minute alternate task break after every hour is recommended for those operators under high visual demand. Fortunately, problems caused by Computer use can be eliminated or significantly reduced by a combination of workplace environmental controls and professional optometric care.
